Product Description: Details must include the color, shape, and texture.	This extract can be light gold, amber, or dark brown in color. Will be a similar consistency & viscosity of molasses, decreasing in viscosity as it is warmed.
Ingredients:	Marijuana extract, Alaska Hemp Program-approved hemp concentrate (for CBD/CBG:THC version only)
Standard Production Procedure and Detailed Manufacturing Process:	Utilizing a Pressure-less Cryogenic Ethanol Closed Loop Extractor, ethanol will be chilled and decompressed and then used to saturate the marijuana material to be subject to extraction. The resulting mixture will be decompressed and the emulsion of ethanol and marijuana extract will be sent to the chilled collection chamber. The operator then cycles that chilled emulsion back over the material several times to achieve an efficient extraction. Once extraction is complete, the extractor is connected to a Rotovap and the emulsion is transferred from the collection chamber to the Rotovap. [Cont. on next page.]
Depiction: Provide a photograph, drawing, or graphic representation of the expected appearance of the final product.	Actual product images will be provided prior to first sale to retail or manufacturer. This is just an example of possible color & clarity of concentrate.

The Rotovap will then separate ethanol from the desired extract, resulting in a crude marijuana oil. If applicable, Alaska Hemp Program-approved hemp concentrate will be mixed with the crude marijuana oil at this stage. The recovered ethanol is recycled back into the system for later use. Leaving behind a crude ethanol hash oil concentrate that can be further processed into other concentrates or edibles.
