Shoot, yes you are correct, too many "names involved".

What I need is the sublease from Oleander to Raspberry Roots to specifically say it is a sublease rather than just a lease. And the written consent from the landlord needs to be to Build allowing to sublet.

Thanks
Jane

Jane – attached is what was submitted by Kim – the master lease starts on page 4 and its between Build LLC to Oleander Inc – so Build is the master landlord and leases to Oleander, Oleander subleases to Raspberry Roots – a sublease would not be proper between Build and Raspberry Roots. I guess I am confused what you are wanting from us?

Thanks – Jana

Hello,

I have reviewed your corrections. However, POPPP still inadequate.

The sublease to Raspberry Roots, LLC needs very clearly and specifically be a sublease. The master lease is to Build, LLC and Build, LLC is subleasing to Raspberry Roots, LLC. A written consent from the landlord (as the master lease states) should be given to Build, LLC to sublease the premises.

Thank you
