Alyeska pipeline

WHAT TO DO IN CASE OF A

PIPELINE-RELATED EMERGENCY

The Trans-Alaska Pipeline System (TAPS) was designed and constructed to the highest standards to safely transport crude oil from the North Slope to Valdez; however, emergencies may still occur. TAPS consists of an 800-mile 48" oil pipeline, 149-mile 8"-10" fuel gas pipeline from Pump Station 1 to Pump Station 4, the Valdez Marine Terminal and other related facilities.

RECOGNIZING A LEAK

If you are near one of the pipelines during an emergency, you may detect an oil or natural gas leak by:

SMELL: Crude oil may have an odor similar to fuel oil or gasoline. Natural gas leaks may be detected by a pungent, rotten egg or sulfur odor.

SIGHT: A pool of dark liquid or discolored vegetation near the pipeline may indicate a crude oil leak. A dense white cloud or fog and flames may indicate a natural gas leak.

SOUND: An unusual noise, hissing or roaring sound may be a sign of a leak.

IF A LEAK OCCURS

- Do not approach the spill, leak or vapor cloud
- Leave the area immediately
- Do not touch leaking liquids or breathe leaking gasses.
- Do not create sparks, light matches, start an engine, switch on a light, use a camera flash or cellular telephone. These actions may ignite the leaked or spilled substance.
- Warn others nearby of the possibility of a pipeline release.
- Provide your name, location, description of the leak or possible leak and information on how you can be contacted.

From a safe location, call Alyeska Pipeline Service Company collect at (907) 835-4799. You may also contact 911 or other local emergency response numbers.

EXCAVATING & INSTALLATIONS NEAR THE PIPELINE

CALL 811 BEFORE YOU DIG. Some portions of the trans-Alaska pipeline and the fuel gas line are buried. Excavation and installation related activities are prohibited along all portions of the pipeline right-of-way unless prior authorization from Alyeska Pipeline Service Company has been received. Alyeska's Damage Prevention Program was designed to reduce and eliminate excavation and installation related accidents.
