

MEMORANDUM

TO: Robert Klein, Chair and
Members of the Board

FROM: Cynthia Franklin
Director, ABC Board

DATE: April 15, 2016

RE: Delegations from December 1st,
2014 and February 11th, 2015
Board Meetings

The following matters were on the delegated consent, objections, or protest agendas at the December 1st, 2014 and February 11th, 2015 Board Meetings. The board delegated authority to the director to issue the licenses once the applicants settled their matters with the local governing body, the Fire Marshall, or took other action necessary to get the license issued. I am attaching the certified letters (also sent by email when possible) sent individually to each applicant reminding them of the matters on which we were waiting and asking them to appear and update the board on the status of their application.

1. #5371 Cannery Bay Restaurant – Fire Marshal Objects due to no response
2. #4930 El dorado – Department of Labor Objects
3. #5353 Fairbanks Distilling Company – City of Fairbanks protests until a certificate of Occupancy has been issued
4. #5247 Tequila Kitchen Express – Department of Labor Objects
5. #5332 Wings N Things – Municipality of Anchorage protests pending Administrative Site Plan Review and approvals from Anchorage fire Department and Building Safety.
6. #5363 Winterlake Lodge – State Fire Marshal objects due to no response

Re: Cannery Bay Restaurant, License #5371;

Dear Cannery Bay Restaurant:

At the February 11, 2015 meeting of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board in Juneau, Alaska, the board voted to issue your beverage dispensary tourism license with delegation. This means that your license is not ready to issue because you have not received all necessary approvals, but the board was anticipating that you are diligently working on removing the obstacles to your license.

Specifically, the State Fire Marshal lodged an objection to your application because it reported receiving no response from you in its effort to get you to meet its requirements. It has now been one year and nine weeks since the board delegated this matter and we still have not received approval from the Fire Marshal or a removal of its objection.

Please plan to appear at the ABC board meeting April 26 in Anchorage, Alaska, to explain to the board what actions you have taken to get Fire Marshal approval since February 11, 2015. You should expect the board to remove the delegation and deny your license if you have taken no action to get the objection removed. Thanks for your prompt attention to this critical matter.

Sincerely,

Re: El Dorado, License #4930;

Dear Mariella Valencia:

At the February 11, 2015 meeting of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board in Juneau, Alaska, the board voted to transfer this restaurant eating place license with delegation. This means that your license is not ready to issue because you have not received all necessary approvals, but the board was anticipating that you are diligently working on removing the obstacles to your license.

Specifically, the Department of Labor lodged an objection to your application for reasons which it did not disclose to the board. It has now been one year and nine weeks since the board delegated this matter and we still have not received approval from the Department of Labor or a removal of its objection.

Please plan to appear at the ABC board meeting April 26 in Anchorage, Alaska, to explain to the board what actions you have taken to get Department of Labor approval since February 11, 2015. You should expect the board to remove the delegation and deny your license if you have taken no action to get the objection removed. Thanks for your prompt attention to this critical matter.

Re: Fairbanks Distilling Company, License #5353;

Dear Patrick Wayne Levy:

At the December 1, 2014 meeting of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board in Anchorage, Alaska, the board voted to issue this new distillery license with delegation. This means that your license is not ready to issue because you have not received all necessary approvals, but the board was anticipating that you are diligently working on removing the obstacles to your license.

Specifically, the City of Fairbanks protested your application until a Certificate of Occupancy was issued. It has now been one year, four months, and two weeks since the board delegated this matter and we still have not received notice from the City of Fairbanks that it has issued a Certificate of Occupancy or lifted its protest.

Please plan to appear at the ABC board meeting April 26 in Anchorage, Alaska, to explain to the board what actions you have taken to get the City of Fairbanks protest lifted since December 1, 2014. You should expect the board to remove the delegation, uphold the protest and deny your license if you cannot demonstrate adequate efforts to get the protest removed. Thanks for your prompt attention to this critical matter.

Sincerely,

Re: Wings N Things, License #5332;

Dear Wings N Things, Inc.:

At the December 1, 2014 meeting of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board in Anchorage, Alaska, the board voted to issue this new restaurant eating place license with delegation. This means that your license is not ready to issue because you have not received all necessary approvals, but the board was anticipating that you are diligently working on removing the obstacles to your license.

Specifically, the Municipality of Anchorage protested your application pending an administrative site plan review and approvals from building safety and the Anchorage Fire Department. It has now been one year, four months and two weeks since the board delegated this matter and we still have not received notice from the Municipality of Anchorage that it has lifted its protest.

Please plan to appear at the ABC board meeting April 26, 2016, in Anchorage, Alaska, to explain to the board what actions you have taken to get the Municipality of Anchorage's protest lifted since February 11, 2015. Re: Winterlake Lodge, License #5363;

Dear Within the Wild Adventure Company:

At the February 11, 2015 meeting of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board in Juneau, Alaska, the board voted to issue this new outdoor recreational lodge license with delegation. This means that your license is not ready to issue because you have not received all necessary approvals, but the board was anticipating that you are diligently working on removing the obstacles to your license.

Specifically, the State Fire Marshal lodged an objection to your application because it reported receiving no response from you in its effort to get you to meet its requirements. It has now been one year and nine weeks since the board delegated this matter and we still have not received approval from the Fire Marshal or a removal of its objection.

Please plan to appear at the ABC board meeting April 26, 2016, in Anchorage, Alaska, to explain to the board what actions you have taken to get the Fire Marshal objection lifted since February 11, 2015.
