 218 Association (AK-PA) joined the meeting to provide the board with an update on AK-PA's business and

 220 student membership and maintaining close relationships with the universities so that they can aid the 221 newest generation of psychologists in entering the profession. There is a member of University of Alaska
 222 Anchorage (UAA) staff on the board of AK-PA to represent UAA. Legislatively, they continue to work on 223 the Model Licensure Act. They have found two co-sponsors to present it to the Legislature and their 224 offices have begun drafting the language to present at the next session. UAA is also interested in the 225 Model Licensure Act and their legislative committee will work on finding ways to collaborate with UAA.
 226 The board asked about PSYPACT and AK-PA's stance on psychology compact licensure. Marvo Reguindin 227 responded that he does not believe Alaska has yet been approached regarding PSYPACT but as the 228 Executive Director of the Washington Psychological Association, he is aware of changes being made to 229 the compact legislation. Compact licensure is a topic that is extremely prevalent across several 230 healthcare boards in Alaska. AK-PA will provide another update at the November meeting.

330 Agenda Item – New Business

331

332 Bradley McConnell presented regarding different license types across jurisdictions. He reported that all 333 states have a version of a Master's level practitioner license but it varies what their allowed scope of 334 practice is, whether they must be supervised, and how long this license can be held across states. The 335 board has discussed in the past changing the title of a Psychological Associate to something that would 336 more appropriately indicate their level of training. Alaska's Psychological Associate is a Master's level 337 independent psychologist and this transitioned into the topic of temporary licensure titling. There were 338 concerns raised that practitioners that hold a temporary license and can only practice under supervision 339 are advertising themselves as fully licensed psychologists. The Division will look into how many 340 complaints were filed that pertained to temporarily licensed individuals. The board discussed changing 341 the name of a temporary psychologist license and temporary psychological associate license to a title
342 that would indicate their limited scope of practice. The board will be holding a meeting in November 343 and discussing title changes of temporary licenses and also the regulations change that would be 344 necessary to require that temporarily licensed psychologists disclose to their clients that they are still 345 under supervision.

346 The board moved on to discussing SB 21. This bill would introduce a temporary license for military 347 personnel and military spouses to allow them to work while they are completing the application for full 348 licensure. The board discussed framing this temporary military license around their Emergency Courtesy 349 License and elected to have a meeting in September to discuss development of this license. SB 21 will be 350 put into effect on January 1st, 2021.

351 Upcoming conference attendance was discussed and given that this is a virtual conference on October 352 15th and 16th, all three board members present will try to attend.

353

354 Agenda Item – Application Review

355

356 The board reviewed tabled applications and applications that would require further discussion. These 357 included a Request for an Alternate Supervision Plan, an application for Licensure as a Psychologist by 358 Credentials, and a request to take the EPPP as an Unlicensed Individual.

359

360 In a roll call vote called for by Logan Bugayong, the board voted to approve the Request for an 361 Alternate Supervision Plan for Jaime Spatrisano, license number 157815. With unanimous
 362 consent, it is resolved to not approve the Request for an Alternate Supervision Plan for Jaime
