

Brynn Hare, Executive Director

The Vermont Cannabis Control Board is looking to hire its first Lab Director for the Cannabis Quality Control Program.

The Laboratory Director will be responsible for both day-to-day operations of the Cannabis Quality Control Laboratory and the development of the Board's long-term cannabis testing requirements, laboratory certification and accreditation plan, and compliance auditing strategy. They will serve as an advisor to the Board members and Executive Director on the quality control program, and ensure the highest quality scientific services to the regulatory agency and the safest products available to the consumer. The position is based in Randolph Center, Vermont with access to Cannabis Control Board headquarter offices in Montpelier.

Please reach out to me directly with any questions. 802-636-7832 or brynn.hare@vermont.gov

Click here to apply: <https://careers.vermont.gov/job-invite/48845/>

New boost

File...

Jan 26

Sarah Okey, Researcher

Hi everyone,

The newly formed research unit at the Washington State Liquor and Cannabis Board is hiring for two research positions! One position will focus more on data management and analysis and the other will focus on end-to-end research operations and writing. Both positions are hybrid and flexible with remote work. See below links and job descriptions for more information.

Operations Research Specialist

In this position, you will support the agency's mission by serving as a research specialist, supporting all divisions in the agency. You will conduct complex research review and analysis of existing studies, evaluations, and best practices towards public health and safety interests involving outreach, education, and operational needs. This position has direct input into agency research topics, approaches, and deliverables. In this role, you will engage in original quantitative and qualitative research and be involved in research theory, design methodology, IRB approval, collection, data analysis, and dissemination. You will write reports, peer-reviewed articles, and presentations that are aimed towards both technical and non-technical audiences.

Research Analyst

In this position, you will support the agency's mission by serving as a management analyst, supporting research projects for all divisions in the agency. You will provide expert level analyses to management, staff and both internal and external customers regarding highly complex, multidimensional issues impacting agency/institution-wide programs and policies. You will collaborate within and outside the agency to determine data sources, gathering and cleaning data, creating, and managing complex datasets, conducting quantitative and qualitative statistical analyses, and interpreting results. In addition, you will be involved in documenting research procedures, drafting written reports on research methodology/statistical analyses (e.g., for peer-reviewed manuscripts, white papers/briefs), and providing results for both technical and non-technical audiences.

Please send to anyone who may be interested!

Thanks,
Sarah Okey
Research Manager
Washington State Liquor and Cannabis Board
Sarah.Okey@lcb.wa.gov | 360. 621.1006